

THE HOOP KID FROM ELMDALE PARK

Created by Teko Bernard

What's the Story About?

All Bernard wanted to do while staying with his grandparents in Elmdale for the summer was work on his basketball skills so he could make the freshman team. But when greed threatens to destroy the small basketball town's legendary park, he takes action and attempts to win a big tournament to save it. Courage and determination shine as he and his team try to help restore the town's park and legacy to its previous glory!

The Hoop Kid from Elmdale Park is a fun middle-grade sports-fiction novel with a touch of fantasy and futuristic technology. It's an underdog story with heart and humor and illustrates the importance of courage, teamwork, friendship, and community. Bernard is such a relatable character, and he's a great true-to-life role model. Readers are sure to appreciate the basketball lingo, his love of the game, and his determination to fight the good fight.

Pages: 114 pages

Age Range: 8-12

Price: $9.99 (Paperback); $2.99 (eBook)

Publisher: Hoop Kid, LLC

ISBN-13: 978-0986059308

Website: www.hoopkid.com

A fun middle-grade chapter book full of courage, teamwork, and a talking basketball! ★★★★★

About the Creator, Teko Bernard

Teko Bernard is an imaginative storyteller and seasoned designer, who writes middle-grade action-adventure chapter books for boys and girls that explore themes of courage, family, teamwork, and responsibility. It was Teko's love for basketball, underdog stories, and magic-realism fiction which ultimately inspired him to create this story.

To learn more visit: www.tekobernard.com.

